has potential. needs more cultures as well. hope it never gets abandoned :). This soundtrack is a magnum-opus. The music seriously has been playing in my head while doing household chores, walking in the city or town, eating (YES! Even when I'm eating!) and when I'm trying to sleep.

I hope someday they include this in as a CD package. I can only imagine the beauty of the official art including on the case and booklet. Even having interview of Jan Valta included would be a truly special work of art. Warhorse Studios has truly created a masterpiece and Valta has made his very own magnum-opus to go with the former's opus.. Sorry, "best VR Ping Pong experience" and "state-of-the-art physics" is just not true. the physics are terrible, i never would release something in this state. there is so much work to do, on everything.... I rarely give bad reviews for games, but I have to this time due to the terrible controls for the Oculus Rift Touch controllers. Next to impossible to pick up anything. If you find that you finally do, it's clunky. Fix the controls and I'll try again.

Review Update - 22-2-2019:

So I gave this game another try after the developer posted an update.

PROS:

- 1) The update definitely improved game play for the Oculus Rift. The game seems far more stable now.
- 2) I found picking up items FAR easier to do.
- 3) Interacting with the world was really nice. More interaction with the world would be nice.

CONS:

- 1) I'm still not sure why it's called "Bully Store". It doesn't quite translate. It's just a cooking sim. Should rename it to something more appropriate. The name just doesn't fit, in my opinion. It's actually a bit misleading.
- 2) Not a lot of interaction with the world & not a lot of food combinations. Which, in turn, makes the game fun for about 20 minutes and it's over.

Wishes:

- 1) More interaction with the world with more food ingredient combos.
- 2) Add the ability for a 2nd player to help.

I have to say that I am quite happy with the update. Well done. Keep up w/ the updates..

Very fun game, getting good deals is addictive :D. I have just under 2 hours in this game, but I can tell I'm going to get a lot of play time out of this.

It's not like what I say actually matters, because everyone on steam has an opinion.

Here's what I like:

- The ambience is great
- Unique controls (I play with a keyboard and it's really not that bad to control. I think you'd have to be a derp to not be able to handle the controls.)
- Material use require a measure of sustainability
- The in-game economy with merchants is clever
- Fishing mini game is fun
- Tasks / Quests feel like they offer progression throughout the game, not just a "Checklist" quest line
- The characters make me lol

Here's what I don't like (trivial stuff):

- I want to be able to move my house / customize my house.
- The combat is wonky. I can often hit a monster 178 gorillion miles away; I think that's probably because the planet is small and the field of depth has to compensate.
- Only one game save

Either way, if you liked Stardew Valley or Harvest moon, you're gonna love the♥♥♥♥♥outta this game.

AND

For my shekel pinching friends: it's cheap.

Who doesn't love a cheap, fun game with plenty of play time to offer?. releases a season pass that says it will include all future content then goes back on that and stops including DLC in the season pass. vile practices by this company. do not buy
